“ Dear Family,

Guy's loss and Eloise's loss are ones never imagined... we all grew up together as two sister's children whether around the corner or next store to each other... We did a lot of crazy things as children with the pets their Mom would get them, playing in the torn down buildings behind their home on Commercial Avenue, swinging on the Tarzan rope that hung from a tree in the ruins behind their home, their Mom taking us to the drive-in, stuffing some of us behind her seat to get some of us in for free, before heading to the drive-in stopping by White Castle to buy us hamburgers, fries and something to drink, always making sure they had the best outfits on the block to wear for school and the holidays. Their home was the gathering place for all the children in the neighborhood.

Then Guy began his family at such a young age with Maryann and you have been together as I say "forever". You two made it through the tough times and raised your "young men" and now enjoying your grandbabies. Though some of them are too young to know their Granddad, talk to them about him, keep his memory fresh in their minds and keep pictures handy to show them who he was. I know you will miss him terribly...

We will miss seeing him ride through the street in his truck picking up what others didn't want and proved to be a find of gold to him...

*Sincerely,
His Cousins - The Crawley Girls*
