“ She recognized me. It was 2 Christmases ago when I last saw Fay, and she said, "Racquel, look how you get big and pretty." Before that, I probably hadn't seen her for about 10 years, but she gave me a sense of home, family, belonging. Though I've lived in many places, anytime I saw Fay, from when I was a little girl, I felt welcomed, loved, and a part of a bigger picture. I realize that she had this same warm way about her with all of her family and everyone she met. She was love in action, even in the most subtle ways. No tears here... we'll claim God's promises that one day we will be reunited. #sleepinpeaceFay

“ *Aunt Fay, you'll be missed. As a child, You were the first to introduce me to Neapolitan ice-cream to break up the passé vanilla flavor. You pushed past the pain to climb a long flight of stairs just to meet your grand nephew. These memories and more, I will cherish for years to come.

Aunt Fay my memories of you is limited but do remember when you would bring back tennis balls for me from the hotel you were working at in Mobay.

Sad I didn't really get to know you more growing up.

I know you were in a lot of pain, now you can SIP.

Your Nephew Marlon
