“ My heartiest condolences to Susan’s family and friends. Susan was a warm and caring person with a truly good heart. Although our acquaintance was mainly through the office, I quickly realized how joyful she was. She loved to talk, and she had a special fondness for Indian food. We often shared conversations, laughter, and discussions about food.

I wish I had more time to spend with her and get to know her better. She left us far too early, but I believe she is in a better place now, watching over all of us.

May her soul rest in peace. Love you Susan!

“ My deepest condolences to Susan’s family. I was blessed to call Susan my friend for several years. She was beautiful, talented, and had a heart that made everyone feel special. I will always remember one Thanksgiving when I invited her to my family gathering — we laughed until we cried over something so simple, yet so unforgettable. That joy, and her beautiful spirit, will stay with me forever. I will forever miss you my dear friend.

“ I am completely broken by the passing of my beloved friend, Susan Adhiambo. It is impossible to put into words the weight of this loss, because Sue has been part of my life for over 30 years, and in all that time, our friendship never wavered. We never fought, never argued, and never once let anything shake the deep trust and loyalty we built. Ours was a friendship anchored in genuine love, honesty, and unshakable support.

Sue was more than a friend; she was family. She loved my children as if they were her own, watched them grow into adults, and celebrated every milestone with me. She was my cheerleader in every season of my life—my comfort during difficult moments, my laughter during the good ones, and my constant support when I felt overwhelmed. Whenever challenges came, she stood by me with a strength, grace, and warmth that made life bearable.

I will forever treasure her thoughtful conversations, her kindness, her wisdom, and the gentle way she made every space brighter simply by being in it. Losing her has left a deep emptiness in my heart—one I don't know how to fill. I will dearly, dearly miss her.

Susan's passing has broken me in ways I cannot explain. But even in my pain, I hold on to the gift she was—an irreplaceable friend, a beautiful soul, and a blessing I will carry with me for the rest of my life.

May her memory live on in the countless lives she touched, and may I honor her by cherishing the love, loyalty, and friendship she so generously gave.
