

Theresa Coleman

June 30, 1926 - March 12, 2016

Theresa Coleman aka Tess was born June 30, 1926 in Liverpool England. She met and married Clarence B. Coleman an American Merchant Marine and along with their first born Lynn, migrated to the United States. They resided in Harlem, New York and then moved to Clarence's hometown of Los Angeles, California

Tess began her working career as a waitress which she loved and flourished. As a homemaker she doted on her two daughters. Tess continued serving others at the Martin Luther King Hospital in Los Angeles where she later retired. She then moved back to New York City to be with and help her daughter and grandson.

An opportunity arose for her to move to Brooklyn, which she loved and was there for many years until her passing. During that time she joined a Senior Citizen Center whereby she enjoyed interacting and serving the other seniors. Tess was an eloquent reader and could converse on a wide range of subjects and many enjoyed her quick wit.

Tess was predeceased by her husband Clarence B. Coleman and brother Tom Smith. Left to cherish her memories are daughters Lynn Coleman of Highland Park, New Jersey. Cheryl Brantley and her husband Kenneth of Piscataway, New Jersey, Grandson Jermaine Swann of Piscataway, New Jersey, Sister Nora Smith and Niece Amanda Smith of Liverpool England.

Along with Florence Brantley and all her family and friends.
